Dear Participant and Supporter,

On behalf of the Southern California Chinese-American Environmental Protection Association (SCCAEPA), a non-profit, volunteer-based organization and the Asian American Environmental Partnership (AAEP), a non-profit, educational organization to Asian American community, we would like to invite your organization to sponsor our inaugural symposium on issues and trends in the environmental field. The symposium will provide a unique opportunity for exposure for your organization, especially to future environmental professionals who are exploring opportunities available to them. We are especially focused on attracting the next generation of leaders through a special emphasis and outreach to college students, including Asian American students in environmental academic fields.

We hope you will act now and commit to having a strong presence at our symposium. We are planning sessions on four topics: Environmental Leadership, Water Issues, Land Use, and Current Environmental Concerns in China, at which among the best experts will share from their knowledge and experience. We are inviting students and professionals from around the Southern California area, and anticipate an attendance of about three hundred.

As a sponsor, you will have at least two benefits for your organization: (1) advertisement of your company to college students who one day will become a professional in the environmental field, and (2) recruitment on campus where attendance will come from multiple local university campuses. This is a chance to directly reach this desirable and targeted demographic. In addition, your sponsorship will also provide the foundation for longer-term ongoing involvement with SCCAEP and AAEP. Your sponsorship will help to support scholarships and awards based on excellence in scholarship and community involvement.

We sincerely hope you can partner with us for this event. You will find a program and sponsorship opportunity form attached. Please contact Mr. Joe Pan at 213-239-6688 ext 188 or jpan@lpcpr.com to confirm your participation. We appreciate your support!

Sincerely,
